

Management Committee

John Hellier began his career in 1985, working on the Far East Desk for James Capel & Company, a UK based broker now part of the HSBC franchise. He joined Oppenheimer in 1989, initially as a proprietary trader focused on derivative arbitrage and later was named head of a newly formed International Trading desk, running that business from 1992 to 1997. Following Oppenheimer's acquisition by CIBC in 1997, he transitioned to a role as Business Manager for the combined firms' US Equity division, helping to coordinate the merger and to develop strategies for growth, eventually being named CAO for Equities in 2002. Following the Fahnstock acquisition of CIBC's retail business and the Oppenheimer brand name in 2003, Hellier joined the new firm as Senior Managing Director and Head of Equities, the position he currently holds. Hellier is a member of the firm's Management Committee; Co-Chair of International Committee; Co-Chair of New Product Committee; Member of Risk Management Committee. He is a graduate of Hamilton College.
